

January 3, 2013

New doctoral workshop / Call for papers

Dear members of the CGDE network, the CGDE doctoral program has been running successfully for several years. We would now like to add a new element to our program: an annual workshop, held at alternating venues, where PhD students can present and discuss their new papers with a broader academic public. This workshop also aims at intensifying the exchange among all CGDE researchers. The first CGDE workshop will take place at the

ifo Institut, Niederlassung Dresden
Einsteinstrasse 3
01069 Dresden

on

February 26 / 27, 2013

We will start around noon and the workshop will end the next day in the early afternoon.

For each paper, we will have 60 minutes for presentation and general discussion. The choice of the conference language (German / English) will depend on the needs of the participants. There is no reimbursement for travel and accommodation expenses though participants may be reimbursed by their home institutions. In the evening of February 26, we plan to have an informal get-together at a local pub to continue discussion with the CGDE network members (at your own expenses).

Please submit your paper (or extended abstract) until January 31, 2013 to marcel.thum@tu-dresden.de.

The program is scheduled to be out by mid of February. Details will be provided on our website: <http://cgde.wifa.uni-leipzig.de>.

We would like to encourage all PhD students and Post-Docs in the CGDE network to submit their papers to this workshop. We also cordially invite all senior researchers to participate as discussants and to provide valuable input to the new research papers of our doctoral students.

We hope to see you in Dresden in February.

Oliver Holtemöller
IWH & MLU Halle-Wittenberg

Thomas Steger
Universität Leipzig

Marcel Thum
TU Dresden & ifo Dresden